

PUBLIC SCHOOL CRICKET IN 1928.

By A. PODMORE.

The field of Public Schools' cricket is so wide that the normally hard task of giving an adequate review of the season's events and personalities assumes formidable proportions, when the space considerations of Wisden's—as is the case this year—requires further condensation. From the nature of the undertaking, I, like others in past years, have had to rely to a considerable extent on information furnished by the schools themselves and, although in some instances replies arrived too late for use, for the general readiness in supplying me with facts, I have to make hearty acknowledgment. With a very large proportion of the school sides and with most of the prominent players, I was able to make myself familiar, not only during term time and the Lord's fortnight in August, but in the extremely interesting series of holiday matches at the Oval and in those played by the Richmond Public Schools side, which extended to mid-September. Such knowledge, reinforced by the views of acquaintances who have played against the schools, encourages me to hope that I may be able to do something like justice to the subject of cricket at the schools.

The season of 1928 came as a welcome relief after the deplorable weather experienced in the latter portion of the previous summer and, as boys are seen at their best on fast wickets, the cricket, too, was better than that of 1927. There was little cause for complaint in the batting and the bowling showed decided improvement all round, not only in the bigger schools but in those less highly favoured. For this, there is little doubt, much is due to the "classes" at Lord's presided over by Mr. Walter Bearley.

Unhappily the fortnight devoted to the schools at Lord's experienced its usual fate and, though the Clifton-Tonbridge match was duly played out, that was the only one of the six in which a definite decision could be reached. Rain robbed Marlborough of almost certain victory over Rugby, which has not come their way since 1923, and no play was possible in the Cheltenham-Haileybury match after the first day.

The play in Lord's Schools v. The Rest, reached a very high standard, the fielding, especially of Adams, of Radley, at cover point, being as good as anything seen in these matches at headquarters. Baiss, of Tonbridge, was no whit behind him in a similar position next day, the anticipation, gathering and returning to the wicket of both fieldsmen being quite an object lesson. The teams had, as usual, been most carefully chosen and each player justified his selection. Carr, however, who had kept wicket brilliantly at Stowe, all through the term, was obviously nervous and never adapted himself to the unusual conditions; he would have been well advised to stand back for the first few overs, until he had accustomed himself to the pace of the wicket. Akers-Douglas, of Eton, played a beautiful innings. His quickness between wickets, unerring judgment and footwork, combined with the wrist and eye of the racquets player, make him the schoolboy batsman of the year and already, a first-class player. On a pitch, in which there was little life, he made his hundred in just two hours and that against bowlers who, if receiving little assistance from the wicket, kept a length, which compared favourably with that of some previous years. Bland, whose record at Shrewsbury speaks for itself, bowled hardly a bad ball all through the match. A left-hand bowler, below rather than above medium pace, he swings in late from the off with the new ball and can also turn it, after pitching. He has, of course, the left-hander's real ball, which pitches on the leg stump to hit the middle and off.

There was little life in the pitch to help the bowlers when Lindsay (Harrow) went in with Baiss to open the Lord's innings against Bland and Brett (Winchester), the latter of whom can make the new ball swing in quite a lot. Both bowlers maintained an accurate length, but Akers-Douglas reached his hundred in two hours and, after that, realising that his side stood in a safe position and that there was plenty of batting to follow, hit wildly at almost everything. Dawson (Rugby) scored at a great pace before the tea interval and Rome, next season's Harrow captain, hit magnificently. The total reached 394.

Batting in none too good a light against the bowling of Nevinston (Eton) and Dawson (both well above medium pace), with Rutter as a change, Brett and Benn (Wellington) went some way towards saving the game, by staying together until the drawing of stumps. Nevinston and Rutter, the latter of whom coming, as he did, very fast from the pitch, appeared to trouble the batsmen more than any of the other bowlers; both swung away dangerously, and Dawson, the fastest of the three, turned the ball sharply from the off. Wickets fell fast the next morning and the innings was all over for 164—a poor score in the circumstances. The bowling honours went to Nevinston and Dawson; the fielding of Baiss at cover was a feature of the innings.

Following on 230 in arrears, The Rest lost two wickets quickly but Brett and Moore made a stand and then the former and Human (Repton), a cricketer seen at his best when things are going wrong, added 86 runs. Human made his 54 in an hour and Brett played fine cricket. Brett's innings of 81 had saved the side, but though Collins again played well, seven wickets were down for 211 and there still existed the chance of a finish. Skinner, however, faced the situation manfully and, when the game was left drawn, The Rest stood 14 runs on and had two wickets in hand.

It is doubtful whether the Schools have ever been represented by a stronger eleven at Lord's than that which, most carefully selected, took the field against the Army on the two following days—not even in 1918, when A. P. F. Chapman, N. E. Partridge, L. P. Hedges, G. T. S. Stevens and C. H. Gibson were included. The batting was sound and even brilliant down to No. 9, every variety of bowling was included and the fielding promised to be the feature of the game. Yet the first day's play proved disappointing to a degree. The wicket it is true was far from easy and B. Howlett bowled at a considerable pace and E. D. Dynes and F. G. Arnold mixed their deliveries well, but Baiss, Akers-Douglas, Sheepshanks (Eton) and Human all got out when well set. Nine wickets indeed fell for 112 before Rome and Townsend added 41 by plucky cricket.

Lindsay had much variety of bowling and used it judiciously and, but for a badly missed catch in the slips, which permitted F. G. Rogers to continue his innings after making 30, the Army might have been out for under 200. As it was, they were 23 runs on, with five wickets in hand, at the close of play. Three men fell quickly the next morning, Townsend bowling his leg-breaks very well, yet in the end the Army gained a lead of 131 runs.

There was a different tale to be told when Lindsay and Baiss went in a second time. Both played sterling cricket, Baiss looking set for a hundred when caught low down in the "gully," off a hit with which no fault could be found. Akers-Douglas played another beautiful innings and with Human jumping out to Howlett and hitting fiercely, Lindsay was able to declare, leaving the Army seventy-one minutes in which to make 131. So far from that task being accomplished three of the most dangerous batsmen were out for 10 runs. So Captain C. E. Dixon and Howlett merely played to keep their ends up and, with no hope of a finish, stumps were pulled up.

Prominent among those who did not appear in either of the trial games at Lord's, were Hazlerigg and Primrose (Eton), Ford (Harrow), Armstrong and Anderson (Marlborough), Sime (Bedford), Sumner (Haileybury), Ratcliffe (Rydal), Brown (Leys), McCaskie (Winchester), Chalk (Uppingham), and Mayhew, the Eton wicket-keeper. A very strong all-round side with plenty of bowling could be selected from these twelve, with reserves in Pearce (Charterhouse), Rogers (Birkenhead), Elliott (St. Peter's, York), Cawston (Lancing), Webster (Highgate), Graham-Smith (Cheltenham), Winlaw (Winchester), Nattle (Clifton), Burt (St. Paul's), and a choice of wicket-keepers in Raikes (Shrewsbury), and Bryce-Smith (Cheltenham). There are many others with almost equal claims.

The Rugby and Marlborough match produced some of the best cricket of the fortnight and was drawn, greatly in Marlborough's favour. Rugby were all out for the moderate total of 179, but, when Marlborough went in for an hour's batting, Dawson, who was bowling very fast, dismissed three batsmen without a run being scored off him. Meanwhile, however, Armstrong had been playing with the utmost confidence and, when joined by Anderson, the pair weathered the storm. In all they added 104 before Armstrong next morning also fell to Dawson, but Anderson was still undefeated with 183, when Page declared. Anderson's innings was one of the features of the fortnight's cricket and the fact that he was missed twice, detracts little from its value. Furthermore, had Armstrong succumbed over-night, when three wickets were down for 11, Rugby might well have established a winning advantage.

Clifton were dismissed by Tonbridge for 77 and, though they made a brave effort in the second innings, Nattle playing very well for a hundred, they were beaten by ten wickets. The features of the match were the bowling of Rutter and the batting of Armour and Crawford for Tonbridge. The Cheltenham and Haileybury match, on a very slow and easy wicket, produced uninteresting cricket on the Friday and no play was possible on the Saturday. Neither side could claim an advantage.

The Young Amateurs side against the Young Professionals, which concluded the fortnight, included ten players who were accustomed to open the innings at their respective schools. Every one of them had scored at least one century during the past term and some of them three or four, so it was a difficult task for the captain to write out the order. Crawford (Tonbridge), played a beautiful innings of 109 and Stokes, the Wellingborough stumper, shaped well for 65, while De Caires (Stonyhurst), who went in tenth, hit with great enterprise for 70. An exciting match was left drawn. The Colts match was notable for a fine innings of 113 by Hadingham (who should have three more years in the St. Paul's XI), a stylish 83 by Allen of Eton and the promising fast bowling of Las Casas, of Harrow.

The Young Amateurs week at the Oval produced some very interesting cricket, Surrey losing the first match to Kent by eight wickets, beating Essex by eight wickets, and drawing with Sussex. Essex declared on the second day and left Surrey 50 minutes to get 110 runs, which were obtained in forty minutes, thanks to some fierce hitting by Milligan (Winchester) and Heard (Cranleigh) and—it must be admitted—to three dropped catches. The Surrey bowling was weak in all three matches, but promising form was shown with the bat by Hadingham, whose back-play and timing on the leg-side are, at present, the feature of his cricket. Kent were strong all through, with Hale (Charterhouse), the most promising wicket-keeper of the week and Benton (Wellingborough), a fast medium bowler with a puzzling delivery, the outstanding figures. Essex included a good all-round player in Stuart-King (Felsted), who was able to bowl only a few overs and two sound batsmen in Waddington (Chigwell) and Wilcox (Dulwich). Norman (Rugby) played a good second innings. The Young Amateurs of Sussex, on their first appearance at the Oval, made a distinctly favourable impression. Cawston (Lancing), a fine all-round cricketer, is worthy of his place in a representative eleven and the side is well equipped at all points. There was a curious declaration in this match. At the luncheon interval on the second day, Surrey were 49 runs on, with two good wickets to fall and Milligan, who had hit freely, 144 not out. To the general surprise, the innings was then declared. Sussex in their turn declared at the fall of the sixth wicket, leaving the home side an hour and thirty-five minutes in which to get 180. After the fall of the seventh wicket—it was a 12-aside match—at 133, no attempt was made to get the runs and the match ended in a tame draw.

The Richmond Public Schools' XI, who played many of the leading London clubs, produced some promising players new to London cricket, notably Ratcliffe (Rydal), Sime, the Bedford captain, a slow left-hand bowler and sound batsman, who scored two centuries in one week for Bedford County, Pettit, an all-rounder and captain of Downside, Webster, a left-hand bowler, promising batsman and brilliant field, who will captain Highgate this year, Whitty (Clifton), who has the making of a really fast bowler, and Evans, a slow spin bowler and left-hand bat, who will have two more years in the Haileybury XI. Crawford (Tonbridge), Dashwood (Wellington), and Wilcox (Dulwich), and several others, who played in these matches, will be in their school elevens again this year.

The Eton and Harrow match will go down in history as one of the finest played between the schools. Interest and excitement were kept up from the first ball bowled to the last. All through two days of fierce heat there was a stern determination by both sides to bring the match to a definite conclusion. Ford's fast bowling, of which much had been expected, aided by Robinson's "wrong 'uns," brought about the dismissal of Eton for the poor score of 126, to which Harrow replied with 234 and Eton in their second innings lost two good wickets for 7 runs. Then Sheepshanks and Akers-Douglas began a stand which—37 being put on overnight—ultimately realised 149 runs in well under two hours. Akers-Douglas played a magnificent innings of 158 and Sheepshanks was able to declare at the fall of the eighth wicket, leaving Harrow 308 runs to win. Eton had scored 415 in four and a half hours and Harrow needed to make runs at the rate of more than 90 an hour. Lindsay and Raphael entered upon the task with great spirit and, even when the latter was run out, there was no thought of playing for a draw. The batsmen continued to take risks and, when a few minutes before seven o'clock, only 50 runs were required, there appeared something more than a chance that Harrow's fortune was going to turn at long last. It was not to be, however, and though fighting to the last, Harrow lost by 29 runs a match which they could certainly have drawn, had they not preferred to go out for a victory which has been denied them for twenty years.

The Eton and Winchester match was an astonishing game. The wicket on the first day was plumb and a high wind made bowling decidedly difficult. Akers-Douglas and Southby played splendidly and scored fast, putting on 175 before the second wicket fell, but, after that, Brett was always likely to get wickets, and an innings which had promised to produce over 400 ended for 304. Brett took six for 92. Winchester, with more than 100 for two wickets, were almost on terms when McCaskie was bowled and then rain came. Next morning, wickets fell fast and, with six down for 139, a follow-on looked a certainty but the "tail," especially Fellowes, playing with real pluck and soundness, the Winchester score reached 242. An astonishing hour followed after lunch, Eton losing seven wickets for 29. Brett bowling magnificently, with a fine length and swinging either way at the last moment, took five of these and in all six for 23. Then came more rain and easier conditions. The last two wickets put on 24, the visitors batting one short through Mayhew being injured. Winchester had 116 to win and had it not been for further rain, which ultimately left only an hour's batting, Winchester would have obtained the runs quite comfortably. As it was, they lost five wickets in scoring 58 by some desperate batting which had never a real chance of producing the runs in the time. The change in the situation between 11.45 a.m. and 3.15 p.m. was one of the most sensational ever seen in a school game. There was nothing wrong with the wicket when Eton collapsed; it was just fine bowling and the run of the luck in favour of the fielding side. Winchester showed more consistent form than any other school, and may fairly be described as the best side of the year. A meeting between them and Shrewsbury would have been instructive. Tonbridge were also very strong all round and Marlborough and Lancing both had powerful batting sides.

Eton, who had been undefeated for two seasons, lost their unbeaten record in the third match of the half, against the Butterflies, who dismissed them for 89. So well, however, did Primrose and Nevinson bowl that 5 runs were required for victory when Captain

J. Cobbold, the last man in, joined P. W. Cobbold. The match was very satisfactory from one point of view. Sheepshanks had none of the previous season's bowlers available, of whom R. C. C. Whittaker and M. de S. C. Ward, the left-handers, had been so effective, and Primrose and Nevinson, who were destined to do the lion's share of the bowling, gave a foretaste of what was to come. Nevinson is fast right-hand. He was inclined to over-pitch but had a very good yorker. Primrose, right-hand fast medium, made the ball come back and sometimes swing away, usually keeping a good length. Jelf, who came into the side against Liverpool, was slow left with a good flight and Hazlerigg, discovered late as a bowler—slow right with an off-break—proved his value at Lord's.

The fielding was good throughout, Akers-Douglas and Sheepshanks being brilliant on the off-side; Mayhew, a worthy successor to the many fine wicket-keepers produced at Eton, was quiet and effective and had no superior in the schools.

So far as the batting was concerned, there was a distinct tail, beginning at No. 7, where Eton are generally so strong. Akers-Douglas, to whom reference has already been made, stood out by himself but Sheepshanks, who had saved the match against Winchester the previous year, was also a "class" player, with admirable footwork. Hazlerigg and Southby were a sound and reliable pair to open the innings and Gosling was a typical Eton batsman, with beautiful strokes in front of the covers. Lyle was seen at his best at Lord's. Particularly good performances were accomplished against the M.C.C. and Free Foresters, both very strong sides. In these matches, Nevinson, Primrose and Jelf distinguished themselves in bowling and Hazlerigg and Lyle with the bat. G. S. Kevill-Davies, whose lobbs had been so successful in junior cricket the previous year, was tried in the earlier matches but failed to gain his colours. Eton have not lost a school match since Winchester beat them in 1920. Harrow beat them by 7 runs in 1918 but the match, confined to one day, does not count in the series. Hazlerigg will captain the side this year, and Southby, Nevinson, Primrose, Jelf and Munroe-Hinds—the last named of whom played a really good innings of 88 against I.Z.—will form the nucleus of this year's side, which thus includes the four bowlers.

Harrow, after the defeat of the Quidnuncs, who included many of the Cambridge team, and the away victory over Marlborough, looked as if they had a side at least the equal of that of 1921—fast scoring, with a varied attack of eight bowlers and holding their catches well. Unfortunately, in the earlier games, the middle batsmen had never been called on to do more than press home an advantage already gained. Brett in the Winchester match, bowled three of their first batsmen out at once and a virtual collapse ensued, only Riddell coming to the rescue, and the visitors won comfortably.

After that, the side never looked so confident but, in spite of this, they played well on the first day at Lord's. Their fielding was very patchy. They were keen and usually held their catches but on the ground they were erratic—a fault shown up badly on the second day at Lord's on an outfield strangely different from their own at Harrow. Lindsay is a fine determined cricketer—not a stylist, but a devastating leg hitter, and he could score effectively all round the wicket. A badly bruised hand handicapped his wicket-keeping. Rome, a very hard hitter, Shuckburgh, who has beautiful strokes in front of the wicket, Lawrence, a really stylish left-hander with an upright stance and a perfect swing, who should go very far as a batsman, Raphael and Welch, were the mainstays of the batting, which was undeniably strong. Of the bowlers, C. G. Ford, who has real pace, might well be a match winner if he keeps fit and avoids strains. Raphael was not so good as he promised to be when 16, Rome, medium paced, did not get enough bowling, while Lawrence with an easy left-hand action, was a little disappointing. Deas was very useful in the earlier matches with slow breaks, Robinson bowled his googlies well at Lord's and against the M.C.C. and Ramsay, a very fine outfield, and Welch can also bowl. Rome will captain the side this year and other old "flannels" available are Shuckburgh, Lawrence, Welch, Ford and Ramsay. The annual "Goose" match, which Harrow won by a wicket for the first time for many years, revealed the fact that Rome has some good material from which to fill the vacancies, including a very promising wicket-keeper in R. H. Bull.

Winchester were bound to feel the loss of such an opening pair of batsmen as P. G. T. Kingsley and I. D. K. Fleming, but they again went through the season unbeaten, and, for the fourth year in succession, were undefeated in their inter-school matches. Of these, they won only one, being successful over Harrow away, when the home side possessed an uninterrupted sequence of wins. The matches with Charterhouse and Marlborough were both drawn much in Winchester's favour. At Godalming, on a very difficult wicket, Winchester had six men out for 30, but Scott, playing extremely well, and Guise added 97 and a total of 170 was, in the circumstances, creditable. Charterhouse never looked like winning, but their later batsmen did well to save the game on an improving wicket. Marlborough made 119 on a muddy wicket, Winchester, 53 for one and then came rain.

Against Harrow, Brett, bowling at his best for the first time in the season, virtually won the match in the first half hour. The Winchester batting was slow but sound and there was nothing to be gained by hurrying. McCaskie, a left-hander, made delightful strokes all round the wicket.

Taken as a whole, Winchester was a school side second to none and well above the average. They had two match winning bowlers in Brett and Townsend, the latter of whom did well all through the half and Brett in the two big games in June. Mason and Jenkyns were just steady changes. The fielding was well up to the Winchester standard and first class against Eton; the batting was solid and there was plenty of it. Brett, with a watchful defence and very good on the on-side, Walker, hard to bowl out and a sound wicket-keeper, Winlaw, a stiff player with a strong defence, Milligan, a dangerous and very powerful driver, as was proved at the Oval in the Young Amateurs of Surrey matches—deserve special mention, and all the others could bat better than a bit. Scott, a first-rate captain, improved immensely and should do well at Oxford. In general, Winchester were a hard side to beat. They did not have enough "class" batting of an attacking order to be really dangerous but when Brett and Townsend were both in form, they were good enough to get rid of any school side so quickly that this defect did not matter. Walker captains the side this summer and Guise, Winlaw, McCaskie and Jenkyns are left, in addition to Stephens, the twelfth man.

Rugby had a fairly successful season. The first three matches were won, including that against the Authentics, who had a good side, but they were beaten later by the Free Foresters, B.N.C., Old Rugbeians and Clifton. Clifton was the chief failure, as, after gaining a lead on the first innings, the Rugby batting collapsed unaccountably on a slow, dead wicket against the bowling of Tilly and Warren, and Clifton won by five wickets. Towards the end of the season, the side improved and—mainly owing to Dawson who took seven for 33—Uppingham were beaten and later, M.C.C. and the Town. Apart from the fielding, the bowling of Dawson and the batting of Davies, Rugby were not seen at their best at Lord's, where the absence of Hunting, the wicket-keeper, weakened the team. Dawson was the mainstay of the eleven and his average of 11.9 for fifty-three wickets by no means flatters him. He was not suited by slow wickets but was always dangerous when the going was firm. Bowling at considerable pace, he was able occasionally to bring the ball back sharply and knew when to take himself off. He was an enterprising but uncertain bat. The batting of the side was not consistent, though Davies, who scored 73 and 61 against Marlborough, Hunting, Knox and Williams all made runs on occasion. The highest score of the side was 224 against the Town. Hunting will captain the school this year and Norman, a very promising batsman and two others are also available.

With nine old colours available, including all their bowlers, great things were expected of Marlborough and the opening match against the Authentics, which was won by four wickets, after the visitors had declared at 290, strengthened these hopes. All the school matches, however, were drawn, the batting breaking down at Winchester, where rain robbed the home side of victory, while Wellington, required only 34 runs to win, with six wickets in hand, when time saved Marlborough. On the other hand, Cheltenham followed on 223 runs behind and only just managed to save the game, and the season concluded with a moral triumph at Lord's, where only time deprived Marlborough of a decisive and long-delayed victory over Rugby. Anderson and Armstrong, whose partnership at Lord's will never be forgotten by those who saw it, Morton, Hewan and Greener, were the backbone of a strong batting side. Morton played two great innings of 140 against the M.C.C. (beaten by 135 runs after leading by 38 on the first innings) and 171 against Cheltenham. The bowling did not realise expectations, Morton's slow left-hand deliveries and Armstrong's medium pace breaks meeting with little success, though the latter came off at Lord's, as did Page with his leg-breaks in the second innings, when Rugby had their backs to the wall. Marley, the faster left-hander, improved considerably on his previous year's record, among his best performances being 10 for 96 in the two innings v. M.C.C., and ten for 150 v. Cheltenham. The fielding was smart and keen and Comber kept wicket in most promising style, very quietly and effectively. Hewan remains to captain the side this year and Comber and Greener are also available.

Although they won only two school matches—against Clifton and Malvern—Cheltenham were not beaten, the other seven engagements being drawn. With six old colours, they had batting above the average, bowling which depended too much on two men, and fielding which, after an uncertain start, improved steadily as the season advanced. Woollatt, the captain, was an attractive bat, who never failed to punish the loose ball. Graham-Smith had strokes all round the wicket and an irreproachable style, and Bryce-Smith, a wicket-keeper of quiet methods and great skill, though not scoring many runs, showed signs of developing into a good left-hand "No. 1." A remarkable innings was that of Ekin, in the Marlborough match, when he went in on the fall of the sixth wicket and hit up 104. On the same occasion, Burton stayed in nearly three hours for 36 and these two players, between them, saved the game. Taite was easily the best bowler—medium pace with a nice flight and an easy action. He can spin the ball and occasionally sends one down that is faster and goes with the arm. Ekin though he lacks sufficient spin, bowled slow leg-breaks with success, and was never afraid to encourage batsmen to try and hit him. The change bowling was mediocre. Bryce-Smith (captain), Graham-Smith, Ekin, Taite, Page, Higson and, possibly, one other old colour, are available this year.

Haileybury failed to win a school match, rain completely spoiling the Uppingham and Cheltenham fixtures, and some very fine bowling by Garthwaite, the leg-breaker, giving Wellington—at one time in an apparently hopeless position—victory by 33 runs, but they were nevertheless a strong batting side. The second innings against Wellington was the only occasion during the term, except against the "Googlies," when A. G. Doggart took five for 53, on which the batting broke down. There were four left-hand batsmen on the side and, of these, Evans and Starnes showed especially promising form while all, down to No. 10, could make runs. Sumner, who was away from some of the matches and hardly at his best, played a good innings of 104 against Wellington and quite recovered his form in the holidays when assisting Dorset. Sergeant played a fine innings of 119 not out, when the school declared and lost to the Cryptics and an equally good effort of 89 by Evans failed to save the game against the Incogniti. Evans, who bowls right-hand spinners and can turn the ball either way, ought to become very dangerous, as he should have at least two more years in the eleven and Wills, a slow left-hander who can keep a length, is a useful foil. Whitcombe provided the faster left-hand element, with Hardy and Addinsell, who came into the side at Lord's, as changes. The fielding, which, in the absence of the captain, was not seen at its best at Lord's, was safe and generally brilliant, and Wolff, when he has gained more confidence, should develop into a sound "keeper." Sumner will again captain the side and will have the assistance of Wolff, Evans, Wills and Newsom.

As is frequently the case, Clifton were relatively a better side on slow wickets and their four wins all took place during June. Their victims included Rugby, who were beaten by five wickets, the winning stroke being made off what must in any case have been the last ball of the match. Tilly, with eleven wickets for 88 and 38 not out, in the first innings and Nattle, with 52 not out, in the second, had a big hand in the issue. Tilly, in his second year of captaincy, although not fulfilling his early promise took forty-seven wickets for just over 17 runs apiece with his slow medium bowling. The side was handicapped by the lack of a left-handed bowler and also by the complete loss of form of Cornes, who had headed the averages the previous year but now dropped out of the team. Whitty, a fast medium bowler with a useful knack of gaining early successes, failed at Lord's and at Cheltenham to adapt himself to the sloping pitches. The Cheltenham match was lost, Nattle and Kettlewell alone doing themselves justice with the bat. Nattle, who in contradistinction to some of the others, plays with a very straight bat, was a sound opening batsman and, of the others, Tilly averaged over 30 and Tovey, Nuttall and Owen all showed promise. The last three are available this season, in addition to Bonham-Carter, the wicket-keeper. A bright feature of the season at Clifton was the exceptionally good catching of the side.

The Tonbridge XI must rank high among the schools of the year, all the schools' matches having been won in convincing fashion. Sherborne were beaten on their own ground by an innings and 93, Lancing at Tonbridge, by an innings and 42 and, finally, Clifton, at Lord's, by ten wickets, Tonbridge in this encounter avenging the narrow defeat of last year. The batting was seen at its best not only on the wonderful Tonbridge wicket, on which Crawford scored 144 against the M.C.C. and 141 against I.Z., but elsewhere. Both he and Armour hit centuries at Lord's, where Baiss also played fine innings against The Rest and The Army. These three made nearly 2,000 runs between them and were the mainstays of an undeniably strong batting side, though Davies hardly fulfilled the promise of the previous year. The value of Baiss to the team, not only as captain, cannot be over-estimated. A sound first-wicket batsman, who restrained his natural impulse to hit, he was also a very useful leg-break bowler—he took six for 28 against Sherborne—and a brilliant cover with a deadly return to the wicket. There was variety in the bowling, but here Rutter stood out by himself. Fast medium, with a high action, he made the ball rise quickly and swing away from the off. Among his performances, were five for 29 against Lancing and five for 34 against I.Z. With Baiss setting a fine example, the fielding, on occasions, reached a very high standard. Crawford, who gained his colours in 1926, is captain this year. An upstanding batsman, with great driving power and strokes all round the wicket, he is a useful right-hand medium pace bowler. The other old colours are Davies and Musson.

Although winning no matches, Malvern as a whole, were rather better than the sides of the last two or three seasons. The batting was decidedly strong, but the bowling was weak. The team is a young one, seven being available for this season, and three or four of them, in all probability, for the following year. The fielding left something to be desired. The outstanding batsmen were Pullan and Moss, but Lister, Crabtree, Walker, Gilford and Bird could all make runs and need, chiefly, experience. Bird who is also a very fair wicket-keeper, though he did not "keep" for the side, should make further improvement as a batsman. The bowling was lacking in variety. Nunneley did a large amount of work and showed himself an enthusiastic and keen captain. Pellew, a left-hander, came on well but, though his length is steady, he has not the ability to spin the ball sufficiently to make himself a "difficult" bowler. Crabtree spins the ball from the off and should be very useful when he has discovered his best pace through the air. Gilford, too, bowled steadily; he makes the ball swing and gets a little turn either way from the pitch. Horrocks kept wicket consistently well.

Though weak in bowling variety, Repton were, on the whole, a well balanced side, the batting being particularly strong. Mendl, R. H. C. Human, Williams, Clarke and Joyce all averaged 30 or more.

The Shrewsbury match was abandoned without a ball being bowled and the game against Uppingham was drawn. Against Malvern, Repton put together 442, Joyce making 108 and R. H. C. Human 107, but Malvern found little to fear in the bowling, hitting up 244 and 323 for three wickets. The fielding was of a really high standard, the members of the side being of a type which causes a captain the minimum of anxiety in setting the field suitably to each man's ability. Mendl, who with seven other old colours, is available again, though awkward in style, is a safe opening batsman and Clarke when he has overcome a certain recklessness, should be good for heaps of runs. If Repton can discover a fast bowler, also a left-hand bowler, they should prove a dangerous side this year, especially if J. H. Human fulfils his promise.

Without in any way being a one-man side, Shrewsbury undoubtedly owed much of their success to the bowling of Bland, who was suited by the wet wickets, rare elsewhere, but frequent at Shrewsbury last season. His bowling figures—seventy-six wickets at an average of 8.77—speak for themselves and his specific performances in school matches—six for 25 and four for 32 against Uppingham, seven for 13 and seven for 28 against Rossall—are even more emphatic. He had a useful foil in Craven, fast medium right-hand, who took five for 22 in Uppingham's second innings. Although Moore and Snow between them made more than a third of the runs scored, the batting strength lay more in general consistency than in individual excellence, nine players topping the half century at least once. Moore, who captains, Snow, a left-hander with good strokes all round the wicket, Green, who bowls slow medium right-hand, swinging from leg and breaking in from the off, Birch and Headlam, both promising bats, are left as a formidable nucleus for this year. Raikes, who has gone up to Cambridge, was one of the best wicket-keepers in the schools and the ground-fielding and catching were good throughout the side. Shrewsbury, who won eight of their thirteen matches, losing two, drawing one—a couple were abandoned—beat Rossall by an innings and 56, and Uppingham by 279 runs, the Repton match not being played owing to rain.

Uppingham were not so strong as their average side of recent years, inconsistency being shown both in batting and in fielding. They had two prolific scoring bats in Chalk and Sutor, the latter getting a century in each innings in the drawn match against Repton and a third in Christopherson, who was, however, handicapped by ill-health. Chandler was the "battering-ram" of the attack, which badly needed really good length spin bowling. The Haileybury match, in which Sutor played well for 81, was ruined by rain but Rugby and Shrewsbury both won handsomely, the Uppingham batting collapsing badly in the Shrewsbury match, against the bowling of Bland. Several members of the side had a tendency to hook the straight ball with fatal results and the team, as a whole, were lacking in anticipation in the field. Cnalk, a fine cover point, useful change bowler and free scoring batsman has been made captain for the coming year.

Rossall was a poor team and lost their two school matches—against Shrewsbury and Stonyhurst. The excellent Shrewsbury bowling disposed of them for 33 and 53 and, if the collapse was not so bad against Stonyhurst, the total did not prove large enough to avert a six wickets defeat. Only two old colours being left, the side was necessarily a very young one which may be expected to do much better another season.

Winning two, drawing two and losing one of their school matches, Westminster had a good season. The strength of the side lay in its excellent fielding, Gardiner, at cover, Luard, at mid-off and Wakeley, in the slips, all distinguishing themselves, but the batting had the merit of consistency and the bowling was varied in character. Bompas the wicket-keeper, made more runs than anybody else, by methods which had style and force, and Gardiner, the captain also scored freely, though he was more brilliant than reliable. J. W. M. Aitken, a left-hander, Symington and Lonsdale—the last an unpolished hitter—all made runs when required, Aitken getting an excellent century against Radley. The only real batting failure was against Sherborne. In bowling, Wakeley, fast for a boy, was capable of long spells with the ball and Gardiner, fast medium, Jones, possibly the best of the four, and Symington, slow in-swingers, all took wickets. Jones, who varied his pace and flight with subtlety, sent the ball high in the air and also had a slight off-break. P. R. Aitken, dismissed late in the season, kept a good length and showed promise. Bompas (captain), Luard, Lonsdale, Colt-Williams, P. Aitken, Symington and Graham should form the nucleus of a strong side this summer. J. A. Evetts, a promising all-round player, who gained his "Pink" the previous year should, with encouragement, go far.

Consistent batting characterised Charterhouse cricket, eight of the side making 50 and over in an innings, but the true, hard wicket at Godalming once more proved a handicap when the school had to play, as at Winchester, on a soft pitch. Although nearly every member of the side, including Hale, the wicket-keeper, bowled at one time or another, there was little danger in the attack. Hunt, slow left-hand, and Bruce-Jones, right-hand leg breaks, were the most promising, but the school wickets did not favour their type of bowling. Welby-Everard was fast but erratic, Carlile was steady and Pearce, who usually "slings them down," distinguished himself in the Winchester match by bowling googlies, his analysis reading four for 28! Pearce, one of the best bats Charterhouse have had for some time, scored 72 against Wellington, who were beaten by 75 runs, and 50 not out, against Harrow. In the latter match, which was drawn, Hartley put together a good 58. Charterhouse narrowly escaped defeat from Winchester, who made 170 and then got nine of their opponents out for 122. The match against Westminster was lost by 33 runs.

Bradfield, with four wins, three draws and six losses, had a reasonably successful season. They lost to Wellington and the Radley match, in which Scott made 53, ended in a draw. They had a hard-hitting No. 1. batsman in Gilbert, who captains the side this year, with six old colours remaining. These include Evans, a promising right-hand fast bowler, Castley, a good wicket-keeper, Marshall, slow leg-breaks, Gray, medium right and Mason, a stylish bat. The fielding of the side was of the "curate's egg" variety, but the batting in which Scott, Groves and Stephens, a hitter, stood out prominently, was on a higher plane and the bowling was useful.

Garthwaite, the Wellington captain, had to rely very largely on his own bowling, the remainder of the attack being on the weak side, but there was some strong batting by Benn and Dashwood, while the fielding and catching were first rate. Wellington started poorly, but improved and, with Dashwood and six others available this season, should prove a strong side if they can find the bowling. In the school fixtures, they had the best of a drawn game with Marlborough, Dashwood making 86 and Freeland 53, not out, drew with Westminster and in spite of a good 55 by Benn, were beaten by Charterhouse. Bradfield proved easy victims, Dashwood contributing 73 of his side's 300 and Munro (four for 50) playing an important part in Bradfield's dismissal for 177. The best win of the season, however, was in the Haileybury match. Wellington batted first and put together 266, Benn making 95 and Lawson 68 and, after Haileybury had replied with 344, Dashwood (65) and Munro (50 not out) helped towards a total of 237. Haileybury were a strong batting side and with only 160 runs needed, things looked black for Wellington, but Garthwaite's leg-breaks came to the rescue and Haileybury were all out for 126, Garthwaite taking seven for 51. Dashwood, a fine field in "the gully," is a natural forcing batsman who is learning restraint, while Benn has all the qualities necessary for opening an innings.

In Adams, their captain, Radley had one of the outstanding school players of the year. He is a punishing bat, who had the useful knack of coming off in school games. When Radley went under to Westminster, he made 54 out of 156; he hit 53 against Sherborne, who were beaten by nine wickets, and 101 against Stowe, when rain curtailed play. The match against Bradfield was left drawn. Apart from his forceful batting, Adams is a first-rate cover-point, with a quick and accurate return and a real facility for moving with the stroke. Van der Gucht, the wicket-keeper, Rogers, Miller and Borgnis, also made runs, but the bowling was rather limited.

Blunt, medium paced, shouldering a lot of responsibility. Dinwiddie bowled his slows, on occasions, very well. He can turn the ball either way, and also bowl the "wrong 'un" and this, with a certain idea of length, makes him a real asset to the side.

St. Paul's beat Leys and Bedford, drew with Dulwich and Stowe, and had a good season. Felton, the captain, a fast medium bowler and a more than useful bat, was fortunate in possessing an opening pair in Hadingham and Shneerson, who seldom failed in their task. Hadingham, has an admirable defence and though lacking, at present, in power in front of the wicket, times the ball well on the leg-side. He is also an excellent out-field and can keep wicket if necessary. Shneerson, not yet sixteen, is already able to drive and is a most promising bowler. He and Hadingham broke the school record by making 253 for the first wicket against Old Paulines. Burt, a sound and stylish batsman, brilliant cover-point, and a change bowler, Maclean, a forcing bat and wicket-keeper, Joseph, who took four for 8 with leg-breaks against Leys and Jobson-Scott a left-hand bowler and first rate field, all contributed a big share towards the school's success.

Dulwich, though beaten by Brighton, had an easy win over Mill Hill and played drawn games with St. Paul's and Bedford. Wilcox, the captain, who has played for Essex, made over 600 runs, averaging 47.84, but he failed in the school matches except against Brighton, when he scored 46. Smith, Knowland, King and Reynolds were the other principal run-getters and the bowling honours were shared by Wilcox (slow), Simmons, a good length bowler, and King, fast medium. Wilcox, Simmons and King all remain at the school. King should be really fast and do well, as he has the right physique. The fielding was splendidly keen, Knowland and Frankford being particularly efficient in this important branch of the game.

Six men averaging over 20 and five bowlers, taking eighteen or more wickets at a cost of 22 runs or less, Sherborne were a useful side. Hodgkinson, the captain, kept wicket and going in first with Gladden, could also make runs. Kreyer, fast medium right-hand, was the all-rounder of the team and Mermagen, a fast right-hand bowler, showed signs of batting ability. Westminster sustained their only defeat at the hands of Sherborne, who beat Downside easily, but failed badly against Tonbridge and Radley, the latter result being all the more surprising as Westminster had trounced Radley.

Beaten by Tonbridge, Lancing defeated Brighton, Eastbourne and Christ's Hospital and might fairly claim to be regarded as a strong side, though they had no left-hander, either in batting or bowling. Collins and Cawston, both of whom played for Sussex, were the outstanding batsmen. Collins, who averaged 71, hit four centuries and, of these, 149 v. Blue Mantles, 105 not out v. Sussex Martlets and 212 v. Lancing Old Boys, were scored within a short period of each other. He made all the strokes, almost his only defect being an occasional failure in patience. Cawston, who hit three centuries and is this year's captain, drives and cuts well, but there were moments when he failed to watch the ball. He was also the best bowler, coming off the pitch very quickly. Roffey, a forcing bat, Church, Taylor, Wheeler and Beale, all played good innings at one time or another. Forsyth and Pears both fast medium, supported Cawston well in bowling, though Roffey was not so successful as in the previous year and Luxmoore's leg-breaks proved rather innocuous. The fielding as a whole was good, particularly in the cases of Luxmoore, Taylor and Roffey.

Winning seven matches, losing two and drawing four, Bedford had a good season. The two losses were against St. Paul's and Oundle, but Bedford beat Wellingborough in a match in which Brown, a slow spin bowler, had the remarkable analysis of four for 5. Cook, this year's captain, who has splendid physique, averaged just under 45 for batting and, right-hand fast medium, took second place in the bowling averages. Sime, the captain, disappointed in batting but his slow left-hand bowling put him on top of the averages with thirty-nine wickets for just over 15 runs apiece. Carlyle-Gall, a forcing bat with good eye and wrists, averaged 50, but the strength of the side lay in its general batting soundness. There was a useful variety in the bowling as, in addition to those mentioned, there were Smith, left-hand medium, Wise, slow medium right-hand and Gideon, slow right. The fielding of the side, except in the St. Paul's match, was always good and, occasionally, brilliant.

Though beaten by St. Paul's and Felsted and having the worst of a drawn game with Bedford, Leys had to their credit, victories over U.C.S., Oundle and Mill Hill. Brown, the captain, lacked patience but was successful at times with the bat and his medium-paced right-hand bowling quick off the pitch, again and again gave his side the upper hand. Against U.C.S., he took five for 33, against Felsted, six for 60, and in the Oundle match, eight for 21. Bate, who made 109 against Mill Hill, Turner and Plant were other run-getters and Champness and Hutchings proved useful in the attack. All the school matches won took place at home. With six old colours, including Brown, there is every prospect of a good season.

It was unfortunate for Felsted that their captain, Stuart-King, who has played for Essex, should have been able to bowl only for limited periods. His fast deliveries, which contrasted admirably with those of Barson, a slow left-hander, had a big bearing on the match against Leys, his analysis being four for 12 and Barson's, five for 21. Phelps, an all-rounder, did well both in the drawn game against Mill Hill and against Highgate—a new fixture, which was lost. Parker showed promise as a batsman and Brabner, a medium right-hand bowler, was often of service. Stuart-King was a dashing batsman, the use of his feet in playing slow bowling being especially good. Phelps improved his batting enormously, as did Powell. The former should make quite a good spin bowler. Mostly very young, the side should have time to improve. Harrison, it is hoped, will realise the promise of his youth as a left-hander—batsman and bowler.

With good wins to their credit over Cranleigh, Aldenham, King's (Canterbury), and Felsted, Highgate must be regarded as a strong side, though they could have done with a fast bowler. Still not until early July were they beaten and then by a strong M.C.C. side. Fabian, the captain, Webster, Walton and Reeves, were the principal scorers. Webster had a very fine match against the Common Room, when he scored 143 not out, and took five for 46. Fabian, a slow medium spin bowler, who turns the ball both ways, Webster, medium left-hand, who will be captain this year and Cunningham, slow medium right, were the mainspring of the attack.

Cranleigh showed themselves a difficult side to beat. The captain, Heard, who twice topped the hundred, had good backing from Francis, Suter and Hatton. Of these, Hatton was the most consistent and, undoubtedly, his batting, half-way down the side, helped the school to more than one victory. The bowling had variety, with two fast medium right-handers in Francis and Mackay, Attwell, slow left-hand, and Suter, right-hand medium. Poole, a most promising wicket-keeper, should have at least, one more year at school.

Downside, who were heavily defeated by Sherborne, had a moderate season. Ratcliffe, Glass and Haddon-Cave, all scored over 300 runs. Ratcliffe and Haddon-Cave each hit up a hundred. Péttit, a useful all-rounder, bowled fast medium right-hand, with a peculiar jerky run to the wicket, turning the ball appreciably and coming quickly from the pitch. Mention should be made of a fine forcing innings by Haddon-Cave against Clifton Club, when he hit up 112 not out, in forty-five minutes. Four old colours, of whom O'Connor and Allan have shown much promise, are left.

Though they won only three out of 15 matches, losing four, and drawing seven, with one resulting in a tie, Ampleforth, a particularly young side, had no occasion to be disheartened. St. Peter's, York, and Durham both beat them and the Bootham match was drawn. Carroll, an aggressive bat, was the most consistent scorer, obtaining an aggregate of 453, with an average of 41, and he also headed the bowling figures with twenty-four wickets for 18.83 apiece. They had a promising fast medium bowler in Ruddin, and Bean, an all-rounder who bowls slow leg breaks and Grieve, who should develop into a good opening batsman, are others from whom much is hoped. In the Emeriti match, Rabnett, the captain, did the hat-trick, his analysis at one time reading four wickets for 5 runs and he followed this up with 113 not out.

While they could make runs, Sedbergh found a difficulty in getting rid of their opponents. Nicholls, the captain, a left-hander with good defence, and plenty of scoring shots, headed the averages and the side were lucky to have a reliable opening pair in Armstrong and Watherston. Brookes, a medium paced left-hand in-swing, took most wickets, but of the others, Doran, medium right, was erratic and Moffatt, who is fast off the pitch, suffered from ill-luck. Hockin, discovered late in the season, showed promise. Sedbergh, who were once beaten and won three matches, all the rest being drawn, had a narrow escape against Stonyhurst, Brookes—who batted one and a half hours for 5 runs—helping to save the match. Dahl, a sound batsman, showed ability behind the wicket.

H. S. de Caires, of Stonyhurst, celebrated his captaincy by heading both the batting and bowling averages with figures of 61.91 and 13.2 respectively, scoring 681 runs and capturing thirty-seven wickets. Against the Craven Gentlemen, he hit up 80 out of 87 in forty-five minutes having previously taken seven wickets for 51. De Caires, who was to go abroad, is succeeded in the captaincy by C. J. Williams, a really fast bowler, who stands 6ft. 3ins.

Elliott, captain of St. Peter's, York, broke two school records, held by Frank Mitchell and R. E. F. Tendall, by his aggregate of 745 and his average of 53. The strength of the school was shown by the ease of their victories against Ampleforth (who were out for 89, after St. Peter's had declared at 265 for five), Giggleswick and Worksop. Avery, who should have two or three more seasons at the school, is a promising left-hand bowler, his twenty-seven wickets costing under 11 runs each.

With six of the side averaging 24 or over, Stowe had fair batting strength but the bowling depended too much on Low and Keith. The fielding was good and Carr's wicket-keeping above the average. The Westminster match was lost, in spite of a great second innings effort of 106 by Howland-Jackson. Rain ruined the Radley game and the St. Paul's contest was left drawn, St. Paul's scoring 176 for four after Stowe had declared at 261 for eight (Brind 70, Carr 51).

Beaumont, who lost to Oratory, K.C.S. and Reading, beating Douai and Epsom, had a disappointing season. The batting was inconsistent and sometime unrestrained and the fielding weak as a whole. The bowling, however, had variety and showed signs of improvement. With C. A. Russell back to captain the side once more and six other old choices, Beaumont should better their record this season. Rowe, who hit an excellent 74 not out, against Epsom, displayed decided promise.

My Epsom correspondent writes:—"Epsom had a curious season—played sixteen, won four, lost four, drew eight. They lost one or two matches which they should have won, and nearly all the drawn games were in their favour. They had eleven batsmen and one bowler. Two or three people—not wicket-keepers—stood behind the stumps on different occasions, missing the opportunity of dismissing nearly 100 batsmen."

The only bowler, D. L. Rhys the captain, took sixty wickets for 13.50 runs apiece. He has gone to Sandhurst and should make his mark in Army cricket. Of the batsmen, Pettigrew and Hunton both hit a couple of centuries and will be available this season. The Brighton match was lost and victory over Christ's Hospital was just missed owing to Epsom's declaration at 258 for three wickets being made too late.

Exciting finishes were the feature of Whitgift's season. The team started off with a tie in the Wanderers match, beat City of London School by two runs, defeated the M.C.C., against the clock, by two wickets and failed by only 19 runs to get 170 in an hour and a half against Old Whitgiftians. The bowling resources were quite adequate, Peart, fast medium, keeping a good length and Stutchbury, Dubois, Thompson and Ewing all coming off in one or more matches. The batting, liable to break down on occasion, was not so satisfactory, but the fielding proved sound. Ling worked well behind the stumps.

Mill Hill were not strong, losing to Dulwich and Leys and drawing with Felsted, after that school had declared. Howard, a first wicket batsman, made runs, but their well contrasted opening bowlers, Lawther, fast right, and Carter, slow left, did not get rid of batsmen as had been expected.

Expectations were not fulfilled at Brighton, the batting, of which much had been hoped, turning out only moderate. The bowling, however, in the hands of Green, Macdonald, Levett and Bartlett, proved to be not so weak as had been feared and the side had a wicket-keeper well above the average in Edwards. Close and exciting finishes were seen in the School matches, Lancing winning by one wicket and Christ's Hospital by one run. Although Brighton beat Dulwich comfortably on runs, the margin of time was very small and the Epsom match, which Brighton eventually won, might well, up to a certain stage, have gone either way. Brighton expect to have nine old colours this season. These include Levett, a left-hand bat with good footwork, Green, a promising young bowler, who can send down leg-break or googlie, varying his flight well, Edwards, the wicket-keeper and Jarchow. The last named, who will captain the side, has an ugly style but is a reliable batsman and possesses the keenness in the field proper to the leader of a team.

The Eastbourne eleven, nearly always a young side, was better all round than usual. Of the three school matches, only that against Lancing was lost. Christ's Hospital and King's, Canterbury, were beaten easily. The bowlers proved above the average, Bowyer and Brook being the best. Bowyer, right-hand medium, set a great example as captain and something ought to be heard of him in Hampshire in the future. A word of praise should also be given to Brook, the best fast bowler the school has had since 1918, when N. McLeod was so successful. The batting turned out even all the way down, Bridgewater, Huelin, Duncanson and Bowyer being the best, and the fielding was excellent. Brook, absent from the Lancing match, accomplished a very good performance in taking six wickets for 80 against a strong side of Foresters and Duncanson saved the match with a determined 86 not out.

Beaten by Lancing and Eastbourne, Christ's Hospital could claim wins against Brighton and Merchant Taylors'. Letts, one of two old colours, taking four for 47, brought off a one run victory, against Brighton, and hit 144 against Merchant Taylors'. This latter match and that against Cranleigh were both drawn, the Cranleigh game being saved largely through a well-played 74 by Emson, the wicket-keeper.

Dover, who were badly beaten by King's, and St. Edmund's (Canterbury) and by St. Lawrence (Ramsgate), came into prominence in the Merchant Taylors' match, when Fox, their captain, a left-handed free-hitting batsman, made 208 in three and a half hours. Fleury and Fry in batting, and Napper as a bowler, were the other most prominent members of the side.

St. Lawrence, Ramsgate, beat Dover by five wickets and had all the best of a drawn game with King's, Canterbury. Much of the success of the side was due to Linnell, who for the second year in succession averaged 50. Linnell is an aggressive bat with a pretty style, but liable to get out through impatience. He also had to do a lot of bowling, there being a weakness in this department. The six old colours left include Oswald, a good bat, Hardie, an all-rounder of promise, and Hill, a very young wicket-keeper above the average.

The loss, early in the season, of Brooke, a prolific run-getter, and opening bowler, and of Veitch, a new colour who was showing much promise, undoubtedly affected the fortunes of St. Edward's, Oxford. Bader, a forcing batsman and fast bowler, was the captain and bore the brunt of the bowling. Hoare, a fast scorer, and O'Hagan made runs and Sargeant (fast), Way (medium-paced swing) and Derme (slow leg-breaks), took wickets for the school who beat the I.S.C. and drew with Bromsgrove. Six old colours remain for 1929.

The disappointing nature of Bromsgrove's results came about mainly through inconsistent batting, caused at first by over-confidence and later on by lack of confidence, and to poor fielding and catching.

The bowling was more satisfactory, Russell, Swayne, Goodrick, Clarke and Hollingworth proving a formidable quintette. Hollingworth, one of the few players to find his batting form, is a left-handed bowler, who varies his speed and flight cleverly. Six old colours remain for this season.

Equipped with a good opening pair, Stokes and Rawlins, a nicely contrasted pair of bowlers in Covey, slow left-hand, and Benton, fast right, and a class wicket-keeper, Wellingborough won six of their fourteen matches and lost five, including the Bedford match. The wicket-keeper was Stokes, who, besides scoring over 600 runs, kept in splendid style, his stumpings on the leg-side off the faster bowlers being specially smart. The fielding was safe, though not brilliant and Rawlins and Dearnaly, the change bowlers, got wickets when wanted, but there was a weakness in the middle batsmen which often penalised the side.

A two-wicket victory over Bedford was a smart performance by Oundle, who owed a great deal in this match to Westmacott (six for 46) and Dixon (51 not out). The latter, a slow right-hand bowler, took four wickets for 27 against Leys, but the Oundle batting had broken down badly and his efforts proved unavailing.

In Ratcliffe, Rydal had an exceptionally good cricketer. He hit up two centuries towards the end of the season, which he followed up with 71 for Wales against the West Indies—an innings which coming as it did when four wickets had fallen cheaply had a lot to do with the defeat of the touring side. Ratcliffe is also an excellent field, especially at cover point and more should be heard of him at Cambridge.

Unfortunately, it was not possible for any definite steps to be taken in the scheme for an M.C.C. tour of the Scottish Schools. Possibly this season, some public-spirited member of the club may see his way to take up a side whose visit would do immense good to cricket in the schools beyond the Tweed.

Little has reached my ears as to their doings in the past season but Fettes appear to have been a strong all-round side, as their record—played fifteen, won seven, drawn four, lost four—proves. In inter-school matches, their proportion of success is even better, as they had three wins to set against one loss.

Merchiston could not equal this, two of their school matches being lost, one drawn and one won, but they were a young side and the draw against Edinburgh Academy was in their favour. Logan, who will captain the team this year for the third time, is a class wicket-keeper and a dangerous batsman. The batting depended too much on the first four or five men, of whom Connel and Morison were most prominent. There was no fast bowler, but Peterkin, medium right, fighting the ball cleverly and turning both ways, met with considerable success. Lumsden, slow left, should develop this year, when he will be one of the eight old colours under Logan's command.

Out of the fifteen matches played Loretto won seven, lost five, and drew three, much the best game, apart from the fact that they won it, being the match with Merchiston. The strength of the side would appear to have lain in the fielding, the catching and returns to the wicket being very good, and in H. L. Henderson, the best wicket-keeper the school has had for years. The Fettes match was lost by eight wickets after Loretto had led by 2 runs on the first innings, and the batting was disappointing after a fair start against Glenalmond, who won by 42 runs.

Winning as many matches as they lost, viz : seven, and drawing two, Glenalmond were also "all square" on their school matches, beating Merchiston and Loretto and losing to Fettes and Edinburgh Academy. The team was evenly balanced but greatly handicapped by being without the services of Wotherspoon, the best bat, until late in the season. Stevenson, the captain, whose fastish bowling was unsuited to the heavy wickets encountered, kept an excellent length and improved his batting considerably. MacRosty was a leg-swing bowler and though a shaky starter in batting, had a big range of shots. Dundas, a steady bat, and Lorraine, more forceful, are both young and should come on well, while Ross, another punishing player, might also become a good spin bowler. Mention should also be made of the steady bowling of Kingston, left-hand round-the-wicket medium-pace, with a good break back.

Belvedere College, Dublin, who, coached by Albert Knight in the Easter holidays, have had a most successful season, won the Leinster Senior Schools' Cup, beating St. Andrew's College, in the final, in an innings. They went through the season unbeaten, winning eighteen of their twenty-one matches, drawing two and tying one. E. A. Ingram has established a fine record in Irish schools' cricket, in making more than a thousand runs for his side. Five of the team were selected to represent the Province of Leinster against the Province of Ulster in school cricket. Ingram scored 70 in the first innings and 54 in the second and took eight wickets in the match. He made many runs for the Leinster Club and had the distinction of playing for the Gentlemen of Ireland against the M.C.C., an unusual honour for a schoolboy. The following performances for his school speak for themselves :—19 innings (twice not out), a highest score of 149, an aggregate of 1,011 runs and an average of 59.47. 163 overs, 68 maidens, 239 runs, 52 wickets—average 4.59. D. Mulcahy, the captain, was a promising wicket-keeper and useful bat.

WINCHESTER v. ETON.

Played at WINCHESTER, Friday, Saturday, June 29, 30.—After being 62 behind on the first innings, Winchester, in the fourth successive drawn match, again took chief honours. Eton started well, Southby and Akers-Douglas sharing in a second wicket stand of 150 in ninety minutes. Southby, who reached 50 in seventy-five minutes, hit eight 4's and Akers-Douglas sent the ball nine times to the boundary during a stay of an hour and three-quarters. Against the bowling of Brett, however, the last six wickets fell after lunch for 83. Brett followed with spirited batting and Winchester, by the drawing of stumps on Friday, stood 191 in arrear with only three men out. Wickets fell rapidly next day, Primrose causing a collapse, while Eton, at the second attempt, failed dismally. Winchester, set to get 116 for victory, hit off 58 of the runs for the loss of half their wickets. Brett bowled wonderfully well, taking twelve wickets in the match for less than 10 runs apiece.

ETON v. HARROW.

Played at LORD'S, Friday, Saturday, July 13, 14. — For the first time in seven years the Eton and Harrow match was brought to a definite issue, a truly glorious struggle ending at a quarter past seven on Saturday in a victory for the Etonians by 28 runs. Not only did much of the cricket reach a distinctly high standard, but on Saturday the play proved of absorbing interest. Eton, by a splendid exhibition of batting, extricated themselves from a very anxious position, and put on runs at such a pace that they were able to declare while Harrow—set a decidedly formidable task—fought so manfully that they came desperately near gaining what would have been their first victory over Eton for more than twenty years. Above all the match will always be remembered for the refreshing spirit in which it was contested, each side going out for a win regardless of the risks so entailed.

Eton entered into the encounter possessed of a fine batting reputation, but in their first innings failed so completely to do themselves justice, that they were all out in two hours for 126. To begin with, Ford, a fast right-handed bowler, met with such striking success that three wickets fell for 30 runs. Akers-Douglas and Gosling, the former hitting with much vigour, added 57 in twenty-five minutes, but following the departure of Akers-Douglas—stumped off the wicket-keeper's pads—the last six wickets went down in little more than an hour for the addition of only 39 runs. Welch, a slow right-handed bowler, started the collapse, but the sensational performance was that of Robinson, a pronounced googly bowler, who, put on for the first time at 111, proceeded to dismiss four batsmen in five overs and a ball for 13 runs. Harrow, as was only to be expected in such encouraging circumstances, fielded very well. Thurston acted as substitute for Rome who was slightly indisposed.

On Harrow going in, Lindsay made 22 out of the first 23 runs, and after he left Raphael and Shuckburgh batted with much skill against some steady bowling on the part of Nevinson and Primrose who were admirably supported in the field. The score rose to 53 before Jelf, a slow left-hander with an accurate length, broke up a promising partnership, Mayhew at the wicket bringing off the first of several fine pieces of work. The game afterwards went so strongly in favour of Eton that there were six of the Harrovians out for 100 and, had a difficult chance, offered by Welch when 8, been accepted, the seventh wicket would have fallen at 107. As it was, Welch and Deas, adding 35, placed their side in front. Ramsay, driving hard, the eighth wicket produced 50 runs in half an hour, and 30 runs were added for the tenth, Harrow securing a lead of 108. Welch—through a misunderstanding between mid-on and mid-off—had a second life given him when 50 but in withstanding the Eton attack for nearly two hours and a half he rendered Harrow invaluable service. Nevinson, of whom much had been expected as a bowler, met with little success, chief honours falling to Jelf. Mayhew brought off four catches at the wicket.

Eton commenced their second innings on Friday, and again fared disastrously against Ford's fast bowling, the first two wickets falling for 7 runs. Akers-Douglas and Sheepshanks raised the score to 44 before the drawing of stumps, but still Eton entered upon Saturday's play in a position of considerable anxiety as, with two men out, they were 64 runs in arrear. The two young batsmen faced the situation in splendid fashion, playing themselves in steadily, and then proceeding to hit out with great freedom. They were fortunate in finding Ford lacking both the pace and length that bowler had possessed at the start of the match, but they accomplished a great performance in putting on 149 runs in a hundred minutes. Sheepshanks' share in pulling the game round was particularly creditable as he laboured under the handicap of an injured hand. Following upon the third wicket stand, the Eton batsmen always held command. Gosling, although he gave a chance of stumping when 21, shaped extremely well, and helped Akers-Douglas to add 89 in three quarters of an hour, and, with Lyle in, 52 more runs were obtained before a catch at the wicket brought Akers-Douglas' splendid innings to a close. Fifth out at 297, after batting for three hours and a quarter, Akers-Douglas, in putting together the fourth highest score recorded in the Eton and Harrow match, gave no palpable chance, and hit twenty-six 4's. He made runs all round the wicket, but the great feature of his innings was hard, clean driving—straight and to the off. The seventh wicket produced 62, and on the fall of the eighth just at half past three, with the total at 415, Sheepshanks declared. Altogether on Saturday Eton hit up 371 runs for the loss of six wickets in three hours and forty minutes, and so averaged more than 100 an hour.

Harrow were set 308 to make in three hours and a half—a task which demanded runs at the rate of 88 an hour. In view of the tremendous pace at which Eton had travelled, there seemed some slight risk in the action taken by Sheepshanks. Probably the Eton captain considered his accurate bowlers and smart fielders would keep the scoring within more ordinary limits. In any event, to possess a real chance of victory, he had to offer Harrow an inducement to go for the runs. Lindsay taking Raphael in with him, the first wicket produced 42 in half an hour, and Welch being let off when 15, a fine stand for the second wicket yielded 97 runs in rather more than an hour. Unfortunately for Harrows chances, Lindsay, after playing fine cricket, was leg before at 137, and with his departure disappeared all likelihood of the runs being obtained. Indeed, when the fifth wicket went down 114 runs were wanted in seventy minutes. At this point, however, Lawrence and Riddell came together and, despite a shaky start, hit up 47 with the result that just before they were separated, Harrow had five wickets in hand, wanted no more than 67 runs, and had forty minutes in which to score that number. For the moment a Harrow victory had become quite a possibility, but Nevinson broke up the partnership, and the batsmen continuing to try and force the game, the last four wickets fell for 38 runs, Harrow after a gallant effort being all out for 279. Hazlerigg disposing of five batsmen had a big share in Eton's victory. Mayhew, in addition to catching four batsmen in the first innings, stumped three in the second. Naturally there was a scene of great enthusiasm at the finish, several thousands gathering in front of the pavilion and cheering wildly for some time. Delightful weather favoured the game each day, and more than 34,000 people paid for admission, so the total attendance at the match was probably well over 40,000.

Of the 99 matches played, Eton have won 40, Harrow 35, and 24 have been drawn. This is the generally published record, but Harrow men object very strongly to the game in 1805 being treated as a regular contest between the two schools, contending that it is no more correct to count that than the fixture in 1857 which has been rejected.

The one day matches between the two schools during the War are not reckoned as belonging to the regular series.

Twenty-five three-figure innings have now been played in matches between the two schools, as follows:—

183 D. C. Boles	(in 1904), Eton	112* A. W. T. Daniel	(in 1860), Harrow

CLIFTON v. TONBRIDGE.

Played at LORD'S, Monday, Tuesday, July 30, 31.—Failing so completely in their first innings that they were dismissed in eighty minutes for a total of 77, Clifton did something at their second attempt to redeem the reputation of the side, but nevertheless had to admit defeat by ten wickets. Bad batting alone accounted for the collapse of Clifton on Monday for the ground was in excellent condition. The stumps were hit nine times. Tonbridge lost two wickets for 28, but Armour and Crawford obtained such a mastery over the Clifton attack that they added 104 in seventy minutes. Crawford hit finely in front of the wicket while Armour, batting for three hours and a half without giving a chance, scored all round the wicket, and had sixteen 4's in his 108. The pitch on Tuesday morning, when Clifton stood 214 behind with all their wickets in hand, played by no means so easily as it had done in the opening stage of the contest. In the circumstances, Clifton accomplished an excellent performance in averting the innings defeat. This achievement, however, was essentially the work of one member of the team—Nattle—who enjoying some good fortune early on, batted for nearly three hours, showed nice variety of stroke and succeeded in putting together a three-figure score. Owen helped Nattle to add 74 for the sixth wicket. Until this match Tonbridge had not beaten Clifton since 1921.

RUGBY v. MARLBOROUGH.

Played at LORD'S, Wednesday, Thursday, August 1, 2.—Thanks to a splendid innings by Anderson and the all round cricket of Armstrong, Marlborough came very near gaining a handsome victory over Rugby, but they could not quite force a win, Rugby when the match had to be abandoned as a draw being still 20 runs in arrear, but having four wickets to fall. On Wednesday when rain delayed the start until two o'clock, Davies batted in fine form for Rugby, making 73 in a hundred minutes, and having two 6's among a number of well varied strokes. The last five wickets, however, fell for 28 runs. Marlborough began disastrously, losing for 11 runs, three batsmen, none of whom scored, to Dawson, the Rugby fast bowler. Armstrong and Anderson stayed together until the drawing of stumps, and altogether their fourth wicket partnership realised 104 runs. Anderson batted in masterly style for four hours and forty minutes, and apart from a difficult chance when 74, made no mistake. Late cutting and admirably timed strokes to leg brought him most of his runs among which were a 5 and twenty-one 4's. His score is the third highest in the long series of games between Rugby and Marlborough, being only beaten by the 211 of P. R. Creed for Rugby in 1892, and the 198 of R. H. Spooner for Marlborough in 1899. Despite the Marlborough total of 386 for nine wickets, Dawson disposed of seven batsmen at a cost of 13 runs apiece. When Rugby, 207 runs in arrear, entered upon their second innings, Davies again played fine cricket.

CHELTENHAM v. HAILEYBURY.

Played at LORD'S, Friday, Saturday, August 3, 4.—Ruined by the weather was the contest between Cheltenham and Haileybury, rain causing two interruptions on Friday, and falling so heavily that night and next morning, that no chance existed of any cricket on Saturday. Batting first, Cheltenham went to work in very careful fashion, considering the easy pace of the wicket but they found their powers of defence rather severely tested by the two fast left-handed bowlers, Wills and Whitcombe, the latter of whom came out with truly remarkable figures. Bryce-Smith and Woollatt showed good form and put on 81 for the third wicket but there was no other stand of much note. Deed and Bartley opened Haileybury's innings by raising the score to 42, yet there were three wickets down for 73 when the day's play—and, as it proved, the match—came to an end.

LORD'S SCHOOLS v. THE REST.

Played at LORD'S, Monday, Tuesday, August 6, 7.—Lord's Schools narrowly missed a handsome victory, The Rest, who had followed on 230 behind, being only 14 runs on with two wickets to fall when the game was left drawn. Batting first, Lord's Schools kept their opponents in the field for nearly the whole of Monday, and put together the big total of 394. Towards this score the chief contributor was Akers-Douglas of Eton who followed up his 158 against Harrow on the same ground a few weeks earlier with a delightful innings of 111. Hitting with fine judgment in front of the wicket and cutting in splendid style, this young batsman gave no chance during a stay of two hours and a quarter. Bails, extremely quiet at first, helped Akers-Douglas to add 136 in an hour and a half for the second wicket, and late in the innings, Rome and Tilly hit up 80 in fifty minutes. The Rest made 24 without loss overnight, and next morning gave a strangely uninteresting display which, extending over three hours in all, realized 164 runs. In the follow-on there came some much brighter cricket in which Brett and Human bore the chief part. These two batsmen added 86 in an hour. Human hit nine 4's and Brett a 6 and eleven 4's.

THE ARMY v. PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Played at LORD'S, Wednesday, Thursday, August 8, 9.—Outplayed on the first day when the Army left off 23 ahead with five wickets in hand, the Public Schools in their second innings showed such marked improvement that they were able to declare, and in the end effected a highly creditable draw. So well did Arnold, Howlett and Dynes lowl, and so keenly were they backed up in the field, that the Schools on Wednesday found runs very hard to get, taking three hours to make 153, of which 41 resulted from a vigorous last wicket partnership. The Army began none too well, but Dynes and Rogers, coming together when the third wicket went down, hit up 108 in an hour, and at the drawing of stumps the score for the loss of five batsmen had reached 176. Next day when, at the conclusion of the Army innings, the Schools went in 131 in arrears, Lindsay and Baiss gave the side a capital start by raising the total to 82. Later on came some vigorous work by Human, the innings being declared on the fall of the seventh wicket. The Army were set 139 to get in eighty minutes and in making the attempt, they lost three batsmen for 10 runs. Thereupon all idea of forcing the game was abandoned, and the match ended quietly.
